Areas you might want to consider include...

- Notebooks and laptops – do your staff have systems that enable them to work quickly and effectively? Could current systems be upgraded, or do you need brand new systems?
- Collaboration tools & training – we have all got used to using new tools during the lockdown, but do you have the right tools and licenses, and do your staff know how to get the best out of them?
- Displays, cameras, keyboards, and mice – having the right kit at home make a huge difference to individual workers.
- Cybersecurity – home connections need to be secure, so you should be using a VPN and have a suitable firewall in place to deal with malware and the potential for intrusion.
- Data management – what's your policy on protecting data as it moves across connections and is stored on PCs and storage devices in the home?
- Connection speed & bandwidth – home workers will need sufficiently fast connections and if they are connecting to on-premises servers, you will also need to make sure you have enough bandwidth at your location.
- Voice services – making sure that everyone can stay in-touch and available at all times on their usual number, will be really useful.

NATIONAL DAY OF REFLECTION

On the inaugural Day of Reflection, on 23rd March 2021, to commemorate one year on from the first lock-down in 2020, the Mayor and Deputy Mayor of Sevenoaks, Cllr Nicholas Busvine OBE and Cllr Dr Marilyn Canet planted two yellow rose bushes in the newly formed memorial rose garden at the recently completed Bat & Ball Centre in Sevenoaks.

The Day of Reflection is dedicated to the memory of loss and suffering during the Coronavirus pandemic, the victory of life and the monumental achievements of those in the caring professions.

At 12 noon a minute's silence was held remembering the lives lost.

Sevenoaks residents can arrange for a memorial rose to be planted in the memorial garden for a loved one. council@sevenoakstown.gov.uk for details.

PRESS RELEASE: VINE GROUNDS POSTPONED OPENING

The Vine Cricket Club and Sevenoaks Town Council regret having had to postpone the re-opening of the newly seeded Vine Ground for a month owing to the cold wet February weather. The poor weather has delayed the strengthening and growth of the grass sown last year to restore the ground.

It is hoped with the temperate increasing and the ground drying, the grass should mature sufficiently to be used by the public and for cricket by May.

It is appreciated that this will be a disappointment to all, however if the ground is opened up too soon, all the hard work and effort put in to restore this historic area could be lost. Your patience and co-operation is much appreciated and we should all be rewarded by magnificent ground for the future.

LITTLE CRITTER CARE

Every year TENS of thousands of rabbits are estimated to be abandoned or sent to rescue centres. The RSPCA rehomed 2500 rabbits in 2019, with 238 of those taken in at Easter. And that's not to mention the numbers from hundreds of rescues in England alone.

Sadly, it is too easy to purchase a rabbit without being given all of the necessary care advice, often due to no fault of the owner. Many owners simply aren't aware of the space that rabbits need, with the RWAFF (Rabbit Welfare Association & Fund) recommending at least 3m x 2m space 24/7 for 2 rabbits. The standard hutch unfortunately doesn't even come to 1/3 of this space, though a spacious shed can make a great permanent outdoor home for a couple of rabbits!

One of the most common reasons for rabbits being given up to a rescue is that the children quickly lose interest.

I WAS one of these children, despite being an avid animal lover who has built a business around providing the best care for pets in my adult life. I absolutely loved my rabbits! I wasn't, however (even into my teenage years), able to understand how important it was to clean out, feed and check on her every single day, especially when I was wanting to hang out with my friends on weekends and avoiding chores at all costs. Sadly, as much as I loved them, they became a chore. For many rabbits that means ending up at a rescue, with a long wait for a forever home.

Many owners will tell you their rabbits are harder to care for than dogs, and I have clients who have spent thousands on vet bills in a short space of time. Rabbits, like dogs, often need neutering or spaying, as well as vaccinations to protect them from deadly diseases, and getting a bunny insured can be more expensive than for a dog!

So, are you still thinking of getting a bunny this year? I've put together a list of some of the most important things to consider when deciding to give a pair of rabbits a home.

5 tips to turn your Easter bunny into a furry friend for life:

1. Rabbits require a lot of space – the RWAFF recommend 2 x 3m of space 24/7, which is about the size of the average small bedroom. A garden shed, room in the house or free roaming are great options.
2. They can be litter trained – Rabbits are self-cleaning, and can be litter trained just like cats, so can make great house pets.
3. They don't like being picked up – being prey animals, they typically hate being picked up, and depending on personality may not enjoy being stroked. But you can train them to become tamer and encourage them to hop up onto the sofa next to you for their favourite snack.
4. Vet bills can be expensive – they're by no means cheap pets to keep and vet bills can get into the thousands. They require regular vaccinations, so it's worth taking out a monthly pet plan.
5. They require a lot of time daily – as well as feeding, watering, and cleaning their litter each day, they require enrichment and grooming just like cats and dogs. Nails need trimming every 4-6 weeks and coats need brushing.
